

The Lenten Liturgy

From the time of the Apostles two weekly fasts, Wednesday and Friday, were regarded as the principle foundation of the liturgical week. In the third century in Rome the fast was prolonged for three weeks. It was the example of Our Lords forty days' fast in the desert which impelled the Fathers at the Council of Nicaea to fix the duration of the fast ordained by them at exactly forty days. Through many centuries almost down to our time, Lent was regarded as the support of Christian training, the "truce of God," during which period even the law-courts and the places of amusement were closed, the whole body of the faithful put aside all other concerns, and endeavored by practices of penance and by liturgical instruction to renew their spiritual energy in order to rise to a holier life with Christ risen and triumphant over death.

At Jerusalem, Lent began eight weeks before Easter, a custom which was imitated to a certain degree by the Latins, when they, too, began the fast on the Wednesday of Quinquagesima- afterwards known as Ash Wednesday- in order to make up for the four days lacking to their Lenten fast of thirty six days. The very first idea of a penitential period in preparation for Easter seems to have arisen with regard to Catechumens, who prepared themselves by prayer and fasting to receive holy baptism on the night before Easter. Ash Wednesday has now for many centuries marked the beginning of the venerable solemnities of the fast ... In the time of Saint Gregory the Great the pascal fast began on the first Monday of Lent, so in reality only thirty six days were devoted to rigorous penance. This Pope reorganized the stational functions in Rome ... and since his time Ash Wednesday has inaugurated the forty holy days of Lent.

The rubric prescribes that the ashes blessed on this day be obtained by the burning of the palms, or green branches, blessed on the Palm Sunday of the preceding year.
